If... Evelyn McFarlane 2008-12-10 Adolescence is one of the most challenging times of our lives — and, of course, the most fun. What do teens want to know about and ask about? It may be friends, TV, school, romance, music, peer pressure, cliques, proms, parties, gossip, parents, food, hair, videos, shopping, sports, card, the future — just to name a few. And there is nothing more fun for teens than asking friends and schoolmate questions about all these things. With the same imaginative zeal that has made the If series so wildly popular, Evelyn MacFarlane and James Saywell engage teens with question such as: If you could pick any three friends to go to college with, whom would you take? If you could start a new fashion trend a school, what style would you propose? If you could have any one super power, what would you choose? If you were stranded on an island and could have one CD, movie, and book — what would they be? If you could have starred in any music video in history, which would you pick?

MAD AT GOD David M. Leyden 2013-12-30 Over the past few years, as I have worked with teens and young adults, I have witnessed an increasing sense of restlessness and despair in young people in today's world. They feel rejected by a world that many of them view as cold, sterile, uncaring and void of love. Physical activity as a form of recreation is being replaced by thumbs tapping on keypads. True friends are being replaced by media acquaintances. Teens find themselves trapped in a world where morals are eroding and electronic bullying is the standard. Music, movies, YouTube and social media celebrate sex, violence and evil. The family unit is becoming a thing of the past. The world, as they see it, is spiraling out of control and there is nowhere for them to turn for moral guidance and love. More and more teens tell me they are disillusioned by the world they live in and many have lost hope. Increasingly high school students are considering suicide. Because of the violence and corruption done in the name of religion today, many young people reject God as an answer to their hopelessness. They want no part of a God who would create a world like the one they live in today. Mad At God is about one such teenager. It is my hope that this book will help teenagers discover the truth about God. This book gives honest and straightforward answers to the questions teens are asking about God today. They are challenging and frank questions that demand answers. It has been my experience, that once their questions are answered, teens begin to look at God in a different light. Many teens today are uncertain and fearful about the future. They are bombarded with images of a world coming to an end. I have included a section in this book that outlines the future for the world, as set out in the Bible, in a manner that is logical and easy for young people to understand. Once presented with this information many teens discover their need for God. The purpose of this book is to help teens find faith in God. If they are "mad" at God, perhaps they won't be after reading this book.

Questions Obnoxious Jewish Teenagers Ask* Mordechai Soskil 2019 "Over the last twenty years I've had a chance to work with all sorts of teens from all parts of the Jewish community and I've noticed that they all have very similar questions. In some places those questions are encouraged and discussed openly. In some places those questions are whispered and hidden. I hope you have at least one adult you can speak to with your questions. Questions are good! The whole process of learning Torah is based on questions! If you're not asking questions then how do we know if you're really engaged in what we're doing? And not asking the questions out loud doesn't make the questions go away. It makes them roll around in your head until they make quite the racket. Sometimes teens don't ask because they think their questions are so powerful that if they got out the whole system of Torah will crumble under the weight of the question. Well, wonderful and important teenager, that is wholly unlikely. So this book is about questions teens like to ask. We'll try to explore some thinking on the big topics: davening, faith, working with parents that are complicated, Hashem, Torah, the purpose of life, that sort of thing. Maybe you'll like my answers. Maybe you'll have more questions. That's great. Ask them. You deserve really great answers. You are, after all, the most important thing in all of creation. Okay, let's jump right in. Who's got a question?" -- back cover.
